TELEGRAPHIC.

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS NORMAL UNIVERSITY.

CARBONDALE, Jackson County, Ill., May 15, 1874.

On condition that a sufficient number of young persons desire, and are willing to contribute a very small sum toward defraying expenses—say two hundred at ten dollars each—a Normal Institute will be held in the Low Building, commencing July 1st, the day of dedicating the buildings and concluding July 31. The Price paid of the University will have charge, and the members of the faculty will give the main part of the instruction. At least ten lectures will be given, and if the cash contributed is sufficient, and the best men of this state a Missouri and Indiana will be brought in for these lectures.

If not more than one hundred fifty attend, the persons contract with the instructors will be greater and the profit larger, and the expense of the institution will be the same, the fee amounting five dollars. If three hundred attend, the fee could be reduced to three dollars.

As the state legislature makes no provision for paying the expenses of such an institute, so difficult and valuable to public southern Illinois, add another favor to the many they have already done the community, and give this announcement several gratuitous insertions in a good place, and call the attention of teachers to it?

Let all who wish to attend, send their names at once—and not later than June 20, prox—to Mr. Rodas, secretary of trustees of Southern Illinois Normal University, Carbondale.

Good board can be had in Carbondale at reasonable rates.

N. B.—The Institute cannot be held with less than one hundred and fifty who will pay five dollars each.

ROBERT ALLYN,
Principal of Faculty.
